Pastor Russell's Discourse at Glasgow, Scotland.

Glasgow—We are all aware of the great importance of the single-mindedness of our Lord Jesus Christ. Just as He was 21 years old and went about doing His Father’s business, so is it today with us. We are called to be the body of Christ, not of just one denomination, but of all nations. We must be set apart from the world, just as our Lord was set apart from it. The world is not ours but we are in the world.

To the Elect.—I beg of you to do your best in the work of the Lord. Let us be faithful in our work, remembering that our Lord Jesus Christ was once here on earth to do His Father’s business. He came to this earth for just one reason, to save the lost. We are called to the same work, to labor for the salvation of souls. We must be set apart from the world, not to be conformed to its standards, but to be transformed by the renewal of our minds, that we may be the body of Christ, not of just one denomination, but all nations.

To the Saved.—I beg of you to do your best in the work of the Lord. Let us be faithful in our work, remembering that our Lord Jesus Christ was once here on earth to do His Father’s business. He came to this earth for just one reason, to save the lost. We are called to the same work, to labor for the salvation of souls. We must be set apart from the world, not to be conformed to its standards, but to be transformed by the renewal of our minds, that we may be the body of Christ, not of just one denomination, but all nations.

To the Unsaved.—I beg of you to do your best in the work of the Lord. Let us be faithful in our work, remembering that our Lord Jesus Christ was once here on earth to do His Father’s business. He came to this earth for just one reason, to save the lost. We are called to the same work, to labor for the salvation of souls. We must be set apart from the world, not to be conformed to its standards, but to be transformed by the renewal of our minds, that we may be the body of Christ, not of just one denomination, but all nations.

To the Sinner.—I beg of you to do your best in the work of the Lord. Let us be faithful in our work, remembering that our Lord Jesus Christ was once here on earth to do His Father’s business. He came to this earth for just one reason, to save the lost. We are called to the same work, to labor for the salvation of souls. We must be set apart from the world, not to be conformed to its standards, but to be transformed by the renewal of our minds, that we may be the body of Christ, not of just one denomination, but all nations.

To the Church.—I beg of you to do your best in the work of the Lord. Let us be faithful in our work, remembering that our Lord Jesus Christ was once here on earth to do His Father’s business. DADDY'S BEDTIME STORY — How Tommy Tangle Lost His Tail

JACK and his brother, Bob, were sitting in a little house in the middle of a meadow, surrounded by their favorite toys. Their mother had just left them to play while she went to the store.

"I wish we could fly," said Jack, looking at the birds in the sky.

"We could," said Bob, "if we had wings like them!"

Just then, a bird with bright colors flew down to their window, and said, "Hello, boys! I've come to take you on a special trip!"

Jack and Bob were excited. They asked the bird where they were going, and the bird replied, "A magical place where we can have adventures!"

So, Jack and Bob boarded the bird's back, and they flew high above the clouds. They flew over forests, over oceans, and even saw a rainbow. It was an amazing experience.

As they landed back at home, Jack and Bob were tired but happy. They thanked the bird for the special trip and said they would always remember it.

—Joshua 23:16

By the Rev. G. D. T. Proctor, Community Chaplain.

The ways of men and women are called "ways of righteousness, " but when we use certain "ways of righteousness" in the name of another, the ways of that other are also called "ways of righteousness." The ways of righteousness, then, are those which are just, honest, and true to one's self and to one's own ends. The ways of righteousness, then, are those which are just, honest, and true to one's self and to one's own ends.

God's word is our guide in all things. We are not to allow our own wills to outweigh the will of God. We are not to allow our own wills to outweigh the will of God. We are not to allow our own wills to outweigh the will of God.

We, as Christians, are to seek to live in accordance with the word of God. If we do not, we are building on sand. We, as Christians, are to seek to live in accordance with the word of God. If we do not, we are building on sand.

This is what is meant when the Bible says, 'Let no man deceive you by any means.' For our own part, we are to seek to live in accordance with the word of God. If we do not, we are building on sand.

For we are not to build on sand. For we are not to build on sand. For we are not to build on sand.

In our lives, we are to seek to live in accordance with the word of God. If we do not, we are building on sand. In our lives, we are to seek to live in accordance with the word of God. If we do not, we are building on sand.

Christians are not to build on sand. Christians are not to build on sand. Christians are not to build on sand.

In the world, we see many people building on sand. It is necessary for us to be aware of this and to live in accordance with the word of God.

In the world, we see many people building on sand. It is necessary for us to be aware of this and to live in accordance with the word of God.

In the world, we see many people building on sand. It is necessary for us to be aware of this and to live in accordance with the word of God.

DADDY'S BEDTIME STORY

How the Little Girl and her Dog Made a Long Trip Together

"DADDY," said Jack, "did you ever have a big dog in this country like the ones in the story book?"

"Yes, Jack," said Daddy, "but if we had one it would be too big to climb a tree and play with it in the grass."

"I want one," said Jack, "and I want to play with it in the grass and climb a tree."

"Well, son," said Daddy, "you can have a dog, but it will have to be a small one."

"I want a big one," said Jack, "but what do you mean by small one?"

"It means that it will be able to fit in your hand," said Daddy.

"Can I have it now?" asked Jack.

"Yes, Jack," said Daddy, "but you must wait until tomorrow."

The next day, Jack went to the store and bought a small dog.

"DADDY," said Jack, "I have a big dog."

"That's good, Jack," said Daddy. "Now, what can you do with it?"

"I can play with it in the grass and climb a tree," said Jack.

"That's right, Jack," said Daddy. "But remember, you must take care of it and feed it and water it every day."

"I will," said Jack.

The dog became Jack's best friend, and they went on long trips together.

"DADDY," said Jack, "can we go on a long trip with the dog?"

"Yes, Jack," said Daddy. "But we must wait until tomorrow."

The next day, Jack and his dog went on a long trip together.

They walked through the woods, climbed trees, and played in the grass. They were very happy.

"DADDY," said Jack, "I love my dog."

"That's good, Jack," said Daddy. "But remember, you must take care of it and feed it and water it every day."

"I will," said Jack.

The dog became Jack's best friend, and they went on long trips together.

DIARY

Goreville, Ill., July 25th—When a man speaks to the crowds in the broad, open air, it is pleasant to be able to hear him. On our street the trees that sheltered the audience made the occasion a pleasant one. The speaker was a man who knew the Bible and spoke of it with depth and understanding. He talked of the life of Christ and the love of God for mankind. His words were like music to the ears of those who listened to him. The crowd was silent, awed by the beauty of his message. It was a touching scene, for people came from far and near to hear the man who spoke with such passion and conviction. He was a true champion of the faith, and his words will remain in the hearts of those who heard him.}

MAD DOG KILLED BY IRISH TOM

Well-Known Character Saves Young Boy; Dog Was Trained to Guard

On Monday evening, a mad dog was attacked by a boy named Tom, who works for the St. Louis newspapers. The boy was playing with the dog in front of his house when he heard a commotion. He looked out of the window and saw a man carrying something on a stick. The man was a notorious character named Tom, who is known to be a tough fighter. When the dog saw the stick, it became very aggressive and attacked the boy. Tom intervened and was able to subdue the dog, but not before it had injured the boy's arm. The boy was taken to the hospital and is expected to recover. Tom is a well-known character in the neighborhood and is respected for his courage and fighting ability.

A Storm at Sea

"Master, care not that we perish!" (Mark 4:39.)

By CHARLES T. RUSSELL

In the midst of the tempest, the disciples did not know what to do. They were in a state of fear and marvel, and were not aware of their danger. The wind was howling and the waves were breaking over the ship. As the tempest continued, the disciples were filled with fear. They were so frightened that they cried out to Jesus, saying, "Master, care not that we perish!"

Jesus saw the fear in their hearts and spoke to them, saying, "Why are you so afraid? Have you no faith?"

The disciples were amazed at Jesus' words. They realized that they were not alone in their fear, and that their faith was not strong enough. They turned to Jesus and asked Him to save them.

Jesus then spoke to them, saying, "Fear not. I am with you always."

The disciples were relieved and their fear subsided. They knew that they were not alone and that Jesus was with them. They decided to have faith and trust in Jesus, even in the midst of the storm.

The disciples learned an important lesson that day. They learned that no matter what happens in life, they should always have faith in Jesus and trust in Him. They learned that even in the midst of a storm, Jesus is always with them and will help them through it.

In our lives, we often face storms and challenges. We may feel afraid and uncertain about our future. But Jesus is with us always and will help us through it. We should always have faith in Jesus and trust in Him. He will guide us and protect us.

The Ascension

"Our Lord ascended," he said, and then began to explain the theological significance of the event. He explained that the Ascension marked the end of the earthly ministry of Jesus and the beginning of his work in heaven. It was a time when the disciples were to receive the Holy Spirit and be sent out to fulfill the Great Commission.

The sermon then turned to the practical implications of the Ascension for the church. He emphasized the importance of being anchored in the faith through prayer and study of the Word. The group was encouraged to remain steadfast in their faith, even in the face of adversity.

The service concluded with a benediction and the singing of the closing hymn. The presence of the congregation was affirmed, and the gathering was dismissed with a prayer for continued spiritual growth and obedience to God's Word.

COMMISSIONERS ARE WARNED

On May 9, 1909, a group of commissioners met to discuss the ongoing dispute between the city and the railway company. The issue centered around the ownership of the land that the railway company had purchased for the expansion of its tracks. The commissioners were warned that if the matter was not resolved amicably, legal action would be taken.

The meeting was led by Mayor James Smith, who outlined the history of the situation and the need for a fair resolution. He highlighted the economic benefits that the railway expansion would bring to the city and urged the commissioners to work towards a solution that would benefit all parties involved.

The meeting adjourned with the commission members agreeing to reconvene in two weeks to discuss further steps. They were reminded of the importance of working together for the betterment of the community.

PUBLIC SALE

of Town Property

On October 1, 1909, the town held a public sale of property to raise funds for the construction of a new school. The property, which included a large lot and some smaller parcels, was advertised in the local paper and drew a number of bidders. The sale proved successful, and the proceeds were allocated towards the school project.

The event was well-attended, with many townspeople gathered to witness the bidding process. The property was sold to a local farmer who had plans to develop the area into a new residential neighborhood.

Truth is Stranger Than Fiction

THE FOLLOWING ALMOST CHALLENGES BELIEF

London, April 4—Bradley Russell, an English traveler, last week, after a long residence in the United States, returned via Canada to his home town in England. He brought with him a series of strange and incredible stories which have astonished and amazed the English public.

Mr. Russell, who is a prolific writer, has been traveling for the past year and has visited many countries around the world. He has been a frequent contributor to the British press with his accounts of his travels.

One of the most astonishing stories he brought home is about a small village in the mountains of China. The village was almost abandoned due to a severe drought, but a local monk managed to bring rain to the area by performing a miracle. The villagers were so grateful that they built a temple in his honor.

Another story is about a group of scientists who discovered a new species of fish in the Amazon. The fish was so rare that it had only been seen once before, and the scientists were able to capture it and bring it back to England for study.

Mr. Russell also spoke of his encounters with strange creatures, including a giant frog in Brazil and a mysterious creature that he called the "mystical mermaid." He also claimed to have seen a real-life unicorn in India, and his report has sparked much debate among scholars.

Despite the incredible stories, Mr. Russell emphasized that he is only telling the truth as he was able to observe it. His accounts have captured the attention of the public and have sparked a renewed interest in exploration and adventure.
